A fatality has occurred on the Pacific Highway, 30km south of Ballina NSW, following an incident between a Cement Australia truck and a motor vehicle. The Pacific Highway is currently closed in both directions.

The New South Wales Police Service, Road Traffic Authority and emergency services have attended the scene. At this stage the cause of the incident is unknown, however a full investigation will be undertaken by the Police with the full cooperation of Cement Australia.

The truck driver was taken to hospital to complete required medical checks and for observation.

Cement Australia will also conduct its own investigation and would like to extend its deepest condolences to the family of the deceased at this sad time.
